Dear Dr Robertshaw,

Your presentation to the 19th Annual CME conference of the Physician Assistant Academy of Vermont was the perfect addition for the 2001 Keynote Address. Each year we strive to secure a keynote topic and speaker that will help to make our event a success.

With over 200 professionals from around the country, the quality level must be "world-class" and you easily exceeded our expectations. You have been preceded by senior US Senators, National Healthcare Policy Makers and even NASA astronauts, so you had a tough act to follow!

Having never heard your message, my entire audience now recognizes that the greatest humor is in real-life anecdotes and adventures, rather than manufactured comedy. Your storytelling abilities coupled with a wealth of rapid fire humor had many audience members gasping to regain composure. You tailored the material into an extremely relevant fabric to match the interest level of my sophisticated audience.

I was also amazed at the number of participants who requested your business cards and brochures after the address. I have not seen that much interest in a speaker's availability in over 10 years of conference planning. I am getting email requests for information from other Physician Assistant State Chapter leaders about your presentation.

Your inclusion in our program will be a guarantee for the return of participants who enjoyed an entertaining and informative conference. Thank you for making our quality event a classic.

Sincerely,

Cary J. Stratford, PA-C
